Your King and Country Need You.

"Granted that legally you need only go if you choose—is it not morally 'up to you' to choose to go? If you are only ready to go when you are fetched, where is the merit of that? Where is the patriotism of it? Are you only going to do your duty when the law says to you must? Does the call to duty find no response in you until you are informed—let us say, rather, superseded—by the call of compulsion? It is not for me to tell you your duty. That is a matter for your conscience. But make up your mind, and do so quickly. Don't delay to make your decision, and having made it, act upon it at once. Be honest with yourself. Be certain that your so-called reason is not a selfish excuse. Be sure that hereafter, when you look back upon today and its call to duty, you do not have cause—perhaps bitter cause—to confess to your conscience that you shirked your duty to your country and sheltered your self under a mere excuse."—J. C. Kitchener at the Guildhall, July 9th.

August 4th.

Yesterday was the anniversary of Great Britain's declaration of war against Germany. The cause of the gigantic struggle now raging may be somewhat obscure to some of our readers and we give the following summary of events which led up to the European War.

On June 28th, the Archduke Francis, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne was assassinated at Sarajevo. Austria made demands on Serbia which were impossible to comply with, and in open defiance of Russia. The suggestion of Russia to have the three disputed points out of the ten submitted to the Hague Tribunal was not acted upon on account of the continuing advice given to Austria by Berlin. As the war clouds became more threatening Austria began to weaken and as late as July 30, appeared willing to continue negotiation with Russia, but when this fact became known at Berlin, Germany stopped any compromise by presenting a German ultimatum to France and another to Russia on that date.

Germany could have prevented the war by allowing her ally Austria to negotiate with Russia, but by standing between her and the other Powers, assumed before civilization the full responsibility for Austria's actions.

Austria declared war on Serbia July 28th. After this date events followed with stunning rapidity. Germany declared war on Russia on August 1st, and on the following day a German army entered Belgium and Luxembourg. In answer to Belgium's appeal, Great Britain sent an ultimatum to Germany, which declared war on August 4th. Austria declared war on Russia on August 6th. France declared war on Austria on August 10th, and Great Britain declared war on Austria on August 10th.

And now after a year of warfare which has been the most terrible in the history of the world, the titanic struggle still continues and the end seems far distant. The Empire has good cause for pride in her achievements of the past twelve months, and awaits with confidence the final victory which is inevitable.

Our Band

An Appeal on Behalf of the Band

"Our Band." When that is lacking in a town you can consider it about dead. In every thing progressive and up-to-date we see a spirit of busied and practically the whole community is, figuratively speaking, on fire.

How can we make our town feel this vim? I don't say that music is all, but I do say that a town is lacking that does not have its band and orchestra and the point I wish to emphasize is that we should have more music. To have this we must have the support of our citizens. You make the start and we will help you. Just thirty minutes leisure devoted to music gives every being a rest mentally. There is no one who regrets his knowledge of music, and no one who may not derive profit in a good many ways by taking up an instrument.

For the boy or girl, it provides a recreation that is profitable and desirable. The discipline of a well organized body or girl's band is good training and the knowledge of music will mean a whole lot later in life.

It makes no difference what instrument you wish to take brass, reed, violin, piano or mandolin, you can be taught.

You see Secretary of Band, and make the start, and by next season you will be playing in public your self.

—Contribution

The west bound train was delayed over twelve hours last Friday owing to a portion of the train leaving the rails just west of Alonsk. This gave the thirty ones of the border town an opportunity to visit the dining car.

Saturday's west bound jumped the track too. Accidents of these kind are becoming too frequent and it is high time the "bad spots" were fixed. Previous accidents on the line have not been attended with loss of life, but one of these days a serious accident will occur and on the principle of "prevention being better than cure" the whole of the Goose Lake line should be thoroughly overhauled. This is a matter that should have the attention of the Dominion Railway Board.

No doubt some ready wit will come forward and say "the line is nothing but bad spots."

Mr. Jack McKenzie says that soon a person will be able to stay in town when the band plays.

Considerable interest was taken in the movements of one of our prominent citizens some few nights ago. He left town after supper when he carefully examined every slough and pool of water which he came across. Several conjectures were made as to what his object was, but his movements remained a mystery, until it was found that he was looking for the swimming pool about a mile east of town.

The store model is now conspicuous by its absence. Enquiring into the reason for its removal, the News was informed that while it was present in the store, unusual activity with a broom was displayed by a member of the store staff. This activity, which would have been most commendable had it been directed in some other channel, threatened to disrupt the general routine of the store, so the model has been relegated to the back warehouse.

Should the above item appear somewhat obscure, we would refer you to our issue of May 6th.
